RECENT ARTICLES

Twice a Day

Catherine Tang

The ghost hovers at the top of the stairs. Usually, it waits behind closed doors. It tumbles around the buzzing lights like a moth, wings of checkered red and blue beating at the hot glass. I notice that the lamps are always louder at night, when a cold black blanket gets thrown over the sky, [...]

Overlake Fall Sports

Sarah Gural and Ryma Patil

If the 2021 fall sports season at The Overlake School was a season to remember, the 2022 season was one for the history books. Through smoke and smog, the women's volleyball, men's golf, and cross-country programs were greatly successful putting up undefeated and record [...]

La Haine – The Best Movie You've Never Seen

Nicholas Diaconu

It's about a society in free fall La Haine is a French film from 1995, written and directed by Mathieu Kassovitz. La Haine is a stylish look into French inner-city life, with a compelling story that depicts the day following a riot. Three young men stand at the center of the story, the hot-headed Vinz, [...]

What Won the 2022 Nobel Prize in Physics? Why is it Important?

Mia Trenbeath

Development in quantum mechanics holds the promise of changing how society processes information and measurements. It is being applied to quantum computing [...]

An Eternal Grief

Aneesha Needamangala

They met on the side of the road, near a dusty parking lot surrounded by a faded gas station and a tilted, dark green sign with large white letters, yellowed with age. Boston. 50 miles. Esther fumbled with a large canvas tote bag, crammed full of old books and [...]

Interview With Latino Affinity

Student Leader Sofy Aguilar Ehrlri

This interview was done with Daniel Welicki, the student leader of the Latino Affinity. It is important to remember that this is just one person's experience and that it is important to not generalize/stereotype people based on their identity. [...]

In the Moonlight

Alice Zhang

In the daylight, she smiles and laughs, a tinkling sound trickling slowly through the air, humming and singing, whimsical melodies floating across the street. Passersby crinkle their eyes, grin at her sweet antics, wish her well. Unsuspecting, unaware, unwitting. In the moonlight, she smiles and [...]
